Seminar Descriptions

1. Jewish Cooking: Students will explore Jewish ritual, history, and culture through a culinary journey. They will learn the roots of many famous and traditional Jewish and Israeli foods and have the opportunity to make and taste them!
   Seminar Outline:
   - Learn how to cook food through a Jewish lens
   - Understand how food became a central part of Judaism
   - Learn why certain Jewish foods are “Jewish”
   - Connect with Jewish foods of the major holidays
   - Discover family recipes and the history behind them

2. Jewish Advocacy Seminar (9th grade only): Students will build the skills needed to engage with and make a difference in issues close to their hearts. Students will have the option to attend the RAC’s L’taken Seminar in Washington, DC.
   Seminar Outline:
   - Knowledge of the process of community organizing and advocacy through lobbying/legislation
   - Learn about events in which the Jewish community played a large role in advocacy work and the Jewish leadership behind those initiatives
   - Text-based understanding and historical understanding as to how this work is important in our Jewish tradition
   - Students will visit Washington D.C. with the Religious Action Center, where they will engage with local and/or state politics, write position papers on an issue of their choosing, and lobby on Capital Hill
   - Students will regularly discuss current events, learning how to view the world through a Reform Jewish lens
3. The Holocaust (8th grade only): Students will study this destructive event in Jewish history, including the political and social catalysts and implications. By learning about the Holocaust in-depth, students will be able to pull important themes and draw connections to modern incidents of genocide, war, and anti-Semitism.

Seminar Outline:

- Knowledge of the Holocaust – political, social, and historical perspectives; major events; key players; and implications we still see in our world today
- A deeper understanding of how this affected global Jewry
- The ability to identify key themes and make connections to modern events and conflicts
- Intimate talk-back with survivors and their families
- A more comprehensive look at the Holocaust in the context of WWII than in younger LCLJ years

4. Jewish American History: Students will learn about the history of Jews in the United States and in doing so tackle themes still present in our world today. All enrolled students will have the option to travel on the Memphis Study Trip in April.

Seminar Outline:

- Knowledge of Jewish immigration, assimilation, demographics, and denominations in the US throughout history (including the history of Reform Judaism)
- Students will regularly discuss current events, connecting themes from the past to the present
- Students will explore the unique perspective of American Jewry in the world today – how we relate to others in the diaspora and in Israel
- Students will learn about Judaism in Memphis and other places in the world and how it has evolved over time
5. Arab-Israeli Conflict: What is it and why does it matter to us:

Students will understand the history and roots of the conflict through diverse narratives. They will gain a deeper understanding while forming their own opinions of why it matters to us as Jews living in America.

Seminar Outline:

- Learn the history of the Arab-Israeli Conflict
- Identify turning points of the conflict that have shaped Israel
- Hear diverse narratives of the Arab-Israeli Conflict
- Reflect on the deeper meaning of the conflict and why it matters to us

6. Jewish Leadership (Jewish Leadership Institute participants only): Students will learn from Jewish leaders across industries to better understand how their Judaism and Jewish values motivate leadership and success.

Seminar Outline:

- Students will meet with several leaders from across industries from in-depth learning sessions.
- Students will better understand their own leadership style through various strength-based leadership activities.
- Students will study great Jewish leaders, past and present, and dissect their leadership styles.
- Students will understand how our tradition can dictate leadership, decision-making, and morality in their lives today.
- Special one-one-one sessions with Central clergy and staff to develop leadership roles and skills
